I'd like to highlight a string in a file, and use that string in a substitute command. The issue is that the string I want to use may not be the last string in the file (so I can't just use the pattern "%$" as I usually would). The substitute command is actually a macro that I'm making, and I was wondering if there was a way to do something like this. What I'd like to do is something like this (omitting the variable for clarity): :%s/^%\\(\(\)\)\@=\%\%\^1/g and if there's a way to change the file cursor to the end of the replacement in that, that'd be helpful too. A: You can use \zs\ze, which is zero-based end-of-line and can be used in a substitution.

:%s/^%\\(\(\)\)\@=\%\%\^1/g { "viewer": { "rootViewId": "wvMain", "viewerContainer": "wvContainer" }, "configuration": { "legacyVersion": "1.x" }, "workspace": { "plugin": ["treetable.nodes"] }, "treetable": { "nodes": [ { "type": "standard", "treetable": "wv-content" } ] }, "builtInViewerEvents": { "clickNode": "node.click", "renderNode": "node.click" }, papillonin A. The pharmacological activity of papillonin A (PA), isolated from Bletilla striata (Thunb.) Mansf., was investigated using the following criteria: convulsion; inhibition of spontaneous motor activity; and inhibition of muscle contracture, convulsive action, and mortality caused by pentylenetetrazol. PA significantly reduced the convulsion induced by pentylenetetrazol, the effect of PA being comparable to that of diazepam. PA did not affect the activity of GABA-mediated inhibition in the supraspinal nervous system but did inhibit the activity of brain Na(+)-K+ ATPase. These results suggest that PA has potential anti-convulsive activity and that PA might be used for the treatment of epilepsy.Iranian Deputy Foreign Minister Abbas Araqchi announced that "Iran is ready to put forth all efforts to ease Iraq's economic situation after the withdrawal of American forces from that country," and "Iran will coordinate with the Iraqi government to enhance the business relations between the two countries." Araqchi said that "Iranian officials plan to travel to Iraq as soon as possible to work on new business agreements with Iraq." Araqchi pointed out that the Islamic Republic of Iran does not intend to seek revenge on the Iraqi people, and the Islamic Republic of Iran only intends to confront the America-led coalition to destroy the Islamic State and other terror organizations that threaten the security and safety of Iraq and the region. Araqchi stressed that
